

ABSTRACT

A first radio communication processor 110 for making a first bidirectional radio communication with a predetermined station, a second radio communication processor 120 for making a second bidirectional radio communication with an adjacent reader/writer in non-contact manner, and a controller 117 for temporarily stopping output of transmission data in the first radio communication processor when the start of the second radio communication with the reader/writer is detected, are provided.